Monthly Commentary

Election uncertainty has become part of investor conversations with polls showing Kamala Harris now running neck-and-neck with Donald Trump. In August 2024, the US Focused Growth UCITS Fund outperformed its benchmark, the Russell 2000 Growth, with a total return of +3.3% (USD) compared to the benchmark's return of -1.1% (USD). Strong stock selection in Industrials and Financial sectors contributed positively to the outperformance. Conversely, the overweight Technology sector detracted the most from performance. Our underweight in Healthcare was a slight negative, however, our stock selection in the sector contributed positively. Softer-than-expected July payrolls and negative ISM prints have many believing there will be an interest rate cut in September and investors worry the Federal Reserve is behind the curve for reducing the risk of a recession.

The Russell 2000® Growth Index measures the performance of the small cap growth segment of the US equity universe. It includes those Russell 2000® companies with higher price-to-value ratios and higher forecasted growth values.
