Monthly Commentary

The most significant macroeconomic development during the month was the Federal Reserve's decision to cut interest rates by 50 basis points in September. The Granahan US Focused Growth UCITS Fund returned 3.4% (USD) besting the return of 1.3% (USD) of the Russell 2000 Growth Index. Strength in the portfolio came from the underweight Industrial, Consumer Discretionary and Basic Materials sectors and the overweight Financial, Technology and Real Estate sectors. Not owning Energy sector names was also a positive. Detractors include underweight Health Care and Utilities. Inflation has been tamed at least for now, and corporate growth rates appear to have stabilized--albeit at levels well below the heady rates of a few years ago.

The Russell 2000® Growth Index measures the performance of the small cap growth segment of the US equity universe. It includes those Russell 2000® companies with higher price-to-value ratios and higher forecasted growth values.
