Monthly Commentary

Despite mounting evidence of labor-market strain, sticky inflation, and cooling consumer spending, the U.S. economy held on to a degree of underlying strength in August. The Granahan Focused Growth UCITS Fund gained +1.8% (USD) during the month, trailing the Russell 2000 Growth benchmark's 5.9% (USD) return. Sector allocation in Financials detracted from results, though this was partially offset by strong stock selection. A modest underweight in Utilities contributed positively. In contrast, the overweight to Technology hurt performance on both allocation and stock selection, while stock selection in Consumer Discretionary also weighed on returns. We acknowledge the weakening economic data, while also recognizing that strong second-quarter earnings continue to validate the durability of U.S. small/SMID cap companies.

The Russell 2000® Growth Index measures the performance of the small cap growth segment of the US equity universe. It includes those Russell 2000® companies with higher price-to-value ratios and higher forecasted growth values.
